Boundaries

Time is moving, it awaits no one. If there is something you need to accomplish do it now or it may never get done. What have you been putting off completing? It is time. Children you are mortal, time for you can run out at anytime. Do you need to make peace with anyone? Then what are you waiting for? What makes you think you or the other person will live to see another day? If something needs to get done then do it and do it well and it goes without saying stay away from practicing wickedness. Those who indulge their flesh by living in sin will eat the fruit of sin which is death, a death that separates you from me forever. Do not follow the dictates of this world that encourages you to live your life without moral boundaries. As you are well aware legitimate boundaries not only mark borders but they also act as a line of safety, preventing you from wondering off into a lonely wilderness. Boundaries are needed in all areas of life. They ensure that you comply with the agreed on laws that ideally should be made to protect the people. When I say something is off limits for my children it is not that I am confining you and preventing you from enjoying your life, quite the contrary the boundaries I set are to allow you to enjoy the freedoms I have given you without losing your most precious possession, your soul. Your soul is priceless as I have said countless times; it is worth more than all the silver and gold in all the worlds. Boundaries are in place to safeguard your soul. The pleasures your flesh so yearn for will destroy you. When sin runs rampant upon the land the people and the land become polluted. Wisdom is lacking and every part of society is not only corrupted but is also perishing, becoming useless, hazardous. Sin really is not a little thing you do on the side and then you go about your life, no, sin is a cancer that can entrap the soul forever. Take heed to the boundaries I have set forth in my word. I see how the world has thrown off all restraint in an effort to seek a higher pleasure in life. This is grave deception that is sweeping across the land overtaking both the young and the old, entrapping souls, bringing much pain, hurt and sorrow. Case in point, look at the current sexual trends in your own country. It has become acceptable for people in a step family to indulge in sexual relations with each other. Did I not vehemently address this issue in my word? Yes I did! I set forth rules of sexual engagement but these have been ignored (Leviticus 18). There are some who have gone so far as to say that the laws that I set forth in the Old Testament are of no effect today. This very thinking is what is causing many in my own house to fall. My word should be applied in totality and no one has the right to take away any part of it. Read my word, ignorance is not an excuse to keep on sinning. Acquire knowledge and correct your ways. I am with you always.

Jesus.
