Overcome the darkness with light

You cannot forget who you are my bride not even for a moment. Yes you are still in this world fighting against your flesh daily but you are more than just mortals, you are my messengers and the message you bear is a matter of life or death. I know your flesh fights you constantly trying to draw you away from me and my calling on you. Do not give in to your flesh. However tempted you are fight with all your might and remain faithful to the ministries I have called you to fulfill. Millions of lives depend on the gifts I have placed inside of you, you my bride bear the rivers of living water within your belly and this thirsty dying world needs it. Look around you bride you can see the darkness encroaching ever closer trying to overtake the light. The time of great darkness is coming but until then continue working, continue ministering while it is still daylight for indeed the night comes when no man can work. Open your eyes look at the state of this world right now. Isn't it amazing that man is hungering and thirsting after darkness instead light? The world has been fed darkness for a while, small doses here and there to the point where they are becoming immune to it. Man now views darkness as harmless, a joke, a comedy. It is sad but indeed it is the truth. The world is obsessed with the occult; it is now acceptable to indulge in occultic practices in public. Of course if the world knew how deep these practices go they would think twice about indulging in them. All Satan has shown you is the tip of the iceberg, practices that seem harmless yet the deeper you walk into them the darker they get. My bride it is your assignment while you are still alive on this earth to push back against the encroaching darkness. You are my light bearers; bear my light into the deepest darkest recesses of this world. I want the whole world to know that there is an alternative to darkness, to oppression, to slavery, to sin. Show them my light that they may walk out of darkness into my marvelous light. Do not grow weary in telling them about me, they need to hear the message of the gospel and you my bride bear that message. Therefore go forth and set the captives free from the darkness that has overtaken them. Do not grow weary, do not grow slack, do not give in to the desire to take off from your posts indefinitely. I know you, I know you need rest and I will allow for moments of rest and refreshment however it will only be for a short while for we are on the last stretch of this walk and we must work swiftly to bring in as many converts as possible before the rapture, before you my bride depart from this earth. I know you are tired but hang in there believe me you are almost done a few more days and it will be time to come home to me. Stay at your posts bride, you are almost done with this journey. In the meantime look up and rejoice for here I am ready to return for you. I love you now and always.

Jesus.
